DECEMBER 6 - 9 : BICYCLE FILM FESTIVAL

Did you know more bicycles than cars are sold in Australia each year? So it makes sense that the Bicycle Film Festival has finally arrived in Australia, riding into Melbourne from Thursday December 6-9. Offering a colourful program of films, gigs, parties, and bicycle-related extravaganzas, the festival encourages everyone get off their seats and onto their bikes, exploring the city and its offerings in unique and exciting ways. There's an opening night live concert, a bike parade, street party, screenings and closing night at the Rooftop Cinema.

SEPTEMBER 1 - SEPTEMBER 21: WALLPAPER WARS

Wallpaper Wars is a fresh new exhibition by Melbourne-based artists Pia de Bruyn and Buni, taking place at the Off the Kerb gallery (66B Johnston Street, Collingwood). Pia explores themes of male sexuality and masculine expression in a bold, confronting way, while Buni, recently returned from a trip to Japan, delves into ideals of expression and feminine sensuality (as pictured). Opening hours are Thurs & Fri 12:30pm-6pm, Sat & Sun 12-5pm with more details at www.offthekerb.com.au.

SEPTEMBER 26 : CLOTHING EXCHANGE

Talk about a top idea! The smart folks at the Clothing Exchange have set up a monthly clothes swap night where you can bring in threads you no longer want and walk out with ones you do. How does it work? Purchase your ticket for entry (or on the door on the night), bring six items with you to exchange them for 'buttons' that allow you to trade for something else. Hey presto, new wardrobe. The next exchange takes place on Wednesday September 26 at 6pm & 8pm at the Croft Institute in China town in the CBD. For more info and to purchase tickets, hit up www.clothingexchange.com.au.
